

October 2009

I incurred a job-related injury in July 2008. I contacted Levi Wolf, Esq. of Wolf, Baldwin & Associates to schedule an appointment to have some questions answered that I had regarding worker's compensation. I am so glad I called because there were many legal aspects of worker's compensation that I was not aware of. Levi informed me that my employer was not calculating my average weekly wage correctly. Levi requested the necessary paperwork from the worker's compensation insurance company and I requested the payroll documents from my employer. Levi kept in close contact with the insurance company to be sure he received the documentation he needed and kept me up-to-date on a regular basis. After many months and a few hearings, we finally were able to agree on a settlement with the insurance company in September 2009.

Levi was a consummate professional and handled my case very efficiently. I am very satisfied with the outcome and I would only want Levi representing my legal needs, particularly those that involve worker's compensation. I am confident in Levi's ability to handle any case that I may present him with and I highly recommend Levi to any potential client.
